Victory Loan Sets Record Pace

Local Flier Reported Missing

Flight Sgt. Pilot Richard Edgar Bertram and his father, J. H. Bertram.

Parade Attracted Wide Interest On Tuesday Evening

Close to eight hundred citizens of Grimsby and North Grimsby Township marched to the Arena last Tuesday night to take part in one of the most impressive events held here for some time. There, they heard Dr. J. G. Fox of St. Catharines recite the story of their activities on the home front during the past three years, and watched a commando dagger, the symbol of the Third Victory Loan, presented to one of the airmen from the community.

The parade, which was arranged by Councillor James W. Baker, formed up at Main and Robinson streets. It moved off shortly after seven thirty, led by Wesley Gallichan, who carried a British flag sent here by Lieut.-Col. Gordon Sinclair. Two bands took part in the parade, the band of the Second-Tenth Dragoons from Hamilton, led by Bandmaster John P. Kershaw, and the band of the Lincoln and Welland Regiment, led by Lieut. Gerald Marks. Also participating in the parade were a detachment of Royal Canadian Naval Volunteers under the command of Sub. Lieut. D. W. Gilmore, and Midshipman J. R. Morrison of Hamilton, and a squad of the Royal Canadian Air Force under the command of Pilot Officer MacDonald, from St. Catharines.

L. A. Bromley, of the West Lincoln Branch of the Canadian Legion, took the salute in front of the post office. With him at the saluting base were some members of the present Canadian Active Army, including Sergt. G. A. Orr, and L. Corp. Victor Mason. Practically every organization in the community took part in the parade, as well as the pupils of eight

To Show Motion Picture Of War

Next Monday's meeting of the Grimsby Lions Club in the Masonic Hall will be featured by the showing of motion pictures of the war, presented by a group from Military District 2, Toronto headquarters. The pictures are believed to include some taken from the Germans. The general public are cordially invited to see these pictures at 8 p.m.

OFF TO A GOOD START

The Third Victory Loan got off to a good start last Monday in Grimsby and North Grimsby Township with total subscriptions amounting to $22,450. This figure is far ahead of results of the first day in the last Victory Loan last February, when first day's receipts amounted to $8,850. The highest single day's receipts during the last Victory Loan totalled $15,100.

Richard Bertram Listed Missing, Presumed Killed

Word was received last month that Flt. Sgt. Pilot Richard Edgar Bertram, R.C.A.F., was "missing" after a night operational flight over enemy territory, followed by official advice that he was "missing believed killed."

Flight Sgt. Pilot Bertram was born November 9th, 1912, on the farm at Grimsby settled by his great-great-grandfather, John Smith, in 1787, and after attending Grimsby High School for some years he passed Honour Matriculation at Delta Collegiate, Hamilton. He was in the interior decorator business at Hamilton previous to joining the R.C.A.F. in 1940. He received his wings at Dunnville, August 20th, 1941, and went overseas shortly afterwards. He took several advanced courses in Britain (the last being at Oxford during the past summer), and had been flying large bombers since before Christmas, 1941. He had taken part in more than 40 operational flights from Britain over enemy territory.

Richard (Dick) was the son of J. H. and the late Mrs. Bertram (formerly of Grimsby) and a grandson of the late Major-General Sir Alexander Bertram and the late Lady Bertram, of Dundee and Montreal. Dick's only brother, Alex, J. Bertram, lives at Chambly, Quebec.

public schools, the Boy Scouts, Girl Guides and Brownies, and the Grimsby High School Cadet Corps. Members of the Grimsby Town Council and other town officials rode in the parade on a wagon drawn by Grimsby's prize-winning town team. All told, more than twenty local organizations marched, forming one of the longest and most impressive parades to have been ever held here.

Request Pictures Of Men In Service For Loan Display

The local Victory Loan committee is preparing a window display which is to feature pictures of as many Grimsby and district men on active service as possible. The window of Current and Betzner's Hardware store, Main Street west, has been made available for the purpose, and already several photographs have been received.

In addition to the photographs, several interesting souvenirs of the war in Britain, sent to Grimsby by two sons of Mrs. George Warner, will be on view. These include parts of German bombs and shells from airplane cannon, a parachute flare, and a fin from a high explosive bomb. Other interesting items would be welcomed by the committee, and care will be taken to see that they and the photographs are returned at the conclusion of the loan campaign.

RESULTS OF FIRST THREE DAYS FINDS BOND SALES UPPED MORE THAN $30,000 IN VICTORY LOAN

Up to last night, sale of Canada's Third Victory Loan in Grimsby and North Grimsby Township had soared to record figures, and disclosed that operations for the first three days were, on the average, higher than the sales for the first three days in the Second Victory Loan last February and March by almost ten thousand dollars a day.

Figures for the first three days in the Third Victory Loan, with the figures for the corresponding days in the former Victory Loan shown in brackets, are as follows: first day, $22,450 ($8,850); second day, $19,300 ($12,150); third day, $20,000 ($8,050). Totals for the current campaign are $60,250, as compared with a total of $29,100 for the first three days in the former campaign.

These results put this district out in front insofar as the running between Lincoln County municipalities is concerned.

The Victory Loan rally is credited with many sales which were thought to have been impossible, according to A. R. Globe, local Victory Loan committee chairman, who told that after the ceremonies in the arena, several citizens who had believed that it was impossible to subscribe to this issue called the loan headquarters and asked to have a canvasser return his call.

"We got some very substantial amounts that way," said Mr. Globe this morning.

Mr. Globe also pointed out that the average of people subscribing with those who are called upon is higher than in the former loans. This time the average is over sixty-six per cent, while in the last loan it was about fifty per cent.

Away Back When

By FRANK FAIRBORN, Jr.

ONE DAY last week, while wandering hither and yon about the town, I spied a little red-headed, freckled faced tyke, sitting with a board across his knees. In that board was a hole. In his hand was a hammer. By his side was a basket of walnuts that he had gathered. He was busily engaged in shelling those walnuts. And were his hands stained? He told me that that was the fourth basket that he had gathered this fall and "by jimminy" he knew where there were plenty more, but he wasn't going to tell any one. He was a happy kid enjoying the best days of his life.

Well do I remember my days of walnut gathering. An old spoke from a buggy wheel with a big iron nut driven on the end of it, which was hurled into the branches of the tree to bring down the nuts. The happy hours of shelling them and getting the hands and sometimes the face stained up until my Mother would be nearly frantic. But oh boy, the joy of eating those nuts on cold winter evenings. Sitting beside the old wood stove in the kitchen, with a flat iron between the knees and cracking them and eating the meat. Some times I missed the nut and cracked my finger and then the howls of pain that rent the air. Those days are gone for ever except in memory lane.

Walnut trees in my day were pretty plentiful around Grimsby, at where this kid located his trees I do not know, but I do know that they are mighty scarce. But leave it to a virile, young boy to find anything.

How many remember the huge walnut tree that stood in front of "Ashy" Bill Gilmore's little white cottage on Main Street, where the A. & F. Store block is now. That was a whopper of a tree that had attained the age of 150 years if memory serves me correctly, when it was felled by the late Daniel MacDonald on May 18th, 1899. That was a great occasion for us kids. MacDonald was an experienced timber man and he had all the rigging and appliances for taking down a tree of this size, and he had it all in use, and believe me we kids knew all about it. In order to drop the main body of this tree, H. G. & B. wires had to be removed and a stub service provided on the street cars for a full day. I still have a good sized chip from that old tree in my museum. The trunk of this tree was sawed in two, squared, and shipped to England.

Another walnut tree that could have given the history of the people of this town backwards for well over a 100 years was the one that stood in front of the old Lincoln House (Hotel Grimsby). Gordon Hannah, proprietor of the hotel, had this monarch of the forest removed in 1932, when he built the new brick front on the building.

One of the finest walnut groves in the district for many years was that in Victoria Park, but of late years the trees became diseased and when the Queen Elizabeth highway went through, the town council accepted an offer from a Niagara Falls, N.Y., firm for the trees. This firm felled them and let the trunks and limbs lay where they fell. It was the roots that they wanted. It seems that the large roots from a walnut tree are in great demand by wood carvers and it is stated that some of the finest and most beautiful carved ornaments are made from these roots.

These park trees for many years gave shade to many hundreds of people who used the park for picnics. In the old days there was a pavilion, picnic tables, etc. in the park and in 197-98 the H. G. & B. railway booked all its picnic parties into this park. The park itself came to the town in the late 80's or early 90's through a deal that Reeve W. F. Randall made in order to acquire it for park purposes.

But to get back to the Gilmore tree. The little old cottage that it shaded had a history all its own. In 1859 there was a store on the property now occupied by the Culp block. Back of that store was a warehouse. The store burned down and the frame of the old warehouse was brought out to the front street and used for the building of the cottage. That was in 1861 and it was built and owned by the late Major Anderson, who later built a fine big house on the property where the Culp block is. The old cottage passed through a lot of troublous times until 1905 when it was purchased by J. M. Lawrie and in 1912 removed by him to a lot on Clarke St., and then it was demolished to make way for the new highway.

The house that Major Anderson built adjoining the cottage was moved to Oak street by the late E. H. Culp about 30 years ago and is now owned by Art. Woodcock and in its place arose the fine Culp block.

Recital Of Grimsby's War Activities Termed "Amazing" By Lincoln County War Finance Committee Chairman At Victory Loan Rally Tuesday Evening

"It is a record of which any community might well be proud, and I am not going to have the impertinence to compliment you on it and thank you for it. You have given proof that you are doing your part and pulling your weight in this war."

So said Dr. J. G. Fox of St. Catharines, head of the Lincoln County National War Finance Committee during the course of his address to the audience at the Grimsby Arena Thursday evening. Dr. Fox had just read through a list of the various accomplishments of the town and township, and emphasized that the total population of the two communities was something less than four thousand people.

"I am frank in saying to you that I was amazed at the contribution this community has made to the war effort," said Dr. Fox. "Bearing in mind that the total population is less than four thousand, and here is the record. Grimsby, in the first Victory Loan, had an objective of $145,000, and subscribed $206,000, while in the second Victory Loan the objective was $206,000 and the amount subscribed was $220,000. In addition to this, War Savings Certificates in 1941 totalled $41,000, and for the first nine months of this year amounted to $26,000."

The speaker listed Grimsby's contributions as follows: British war relief, $1,200, Polish and Chinese relief, $248, Red Cross ambulance, $1,750, station wagon, $1,200, a profit of $1,651 from the sale of salvage by the local salvage committee, various war charities, $9,735, and Red Cross campaigns, $9,270.

In addition to these monetary achievements, the district has, through the agency of eighteen organizations actively engaged in wartime projects, and through individual effort, been responsible for the support of nine British child war guests, the knitting of $4,774 articles, the sending overseas of 260 blankets and over 3,000 miscellaneous articles, one hundred pounds of tea being sent overseas, 200,000 cigarettes sent to local men serving overseas, as well as several thousand shipments of cigarettes by individuals, the dispatch of 5,400 magazines to various army camps, the manufacture of over 300 carloads of hospital equipment by a local firm, and the shipment of hundreds of carloads of canned goods from local canning factories, and five hundred tons of castings for war production.

Grimsby district's enlistments total 325 and 287 blood donors have been active.

Ormsby Dougherty of Toronto, organizer of the Niagara Division of the war finance committee, declared that though he had attended Victory Loan rallies that were bigger, he had never attended one that was more inspiring.

"We are a young nation," a comparatively small nation," he said. "On a basis of something over ten million people, we are this year spending about four billion dollars. This equals about four hundred dollars for every man, woman and child in the Dominion. For a family of five, this would amount to about two thousand dollars."

"Half of this large sum is being raised by taxes, and the other half by loans. We are faced with billion dollar loans every six months. It means that we are spending about $200,000 every hour to keep the war effort going. This means that if the Victory Loan campaign here is successful, and goes over the top to two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, the people of Grimsby will have kept the war effort going for one hour."

"Right now the banks have more funds than ever despite the dollar of two and a half billion count. Truly this is a wonderful world in which an investment is worthwhile. Such an investment will offer you the finest security in the whole wide world. You can buy your bonds with speed just as you can cash a check, and with little difference in cost. When this war is over, the people of Canada will have a savings that will be a bulwark against the years to come."

The ceremonies were opened at the arena with the presentation of a commando dagger to Pilot Officer Livingston Foster by Fred Jewson. Mr. Jewson recalled that P.O. Foster was born and educated here, and was answering the call just as his father did twenty-five years ago. "We've watched his progress, and he has done wonderfully well. We are certainly all proud of him, and we, as citizens of Grimsby and North Grimsby Township wish him Godspeed and a speedy return," he said.

In the presence of Mrs. Sinclair, the flag which was sent from Great Britain by Lieut. Col. Gordon Sinclair was presented to the community by Legionnaire Wesley Gallichan. A. R. Globe, to whom the flag was sent, read an accompanying letter from Col. Sinclair in which he expressed the hope that the flag would serve always as a reminder what the United Nations were fighting for. The flag had been flown from atop a drill hall, and from its colour, it would appear that the fury of bombs from enemy aircraft had burst about it.

Rev. George Taylor-Munro administered the pledge adopted by the authorities for the occasion, and all present stood and repeated its words. Rev. J. A. Ballard offered a prayer for king and country, while Rev. J. A. Watt offered a prayer for the armed forces. Chairman of the meeting was F. V. Smith.

The school children present were heard in several patriotic selections during the evening. They were led by Ted Konkle, and Dorothy Eickmeier was heard in the solo parts of "Land of Hope and Glory" and "Canada, Dear Land of Ours."

Hallowe'en Parade Is Being Arranged For October 30th

Plans are being laid for this year's Hallowe'en parade by a committee of the Chamber of Commerce under Wray Betts. The parade will be held this year on Friday, October 30, and will be from the Grimsby Garage, Main St. east, to the Grimsby Arena.

There a committee of judges whose names will be announced in the next few days will judge the costumes and award the prizes. Posters, announcing the prizes and giving full directions will be available in the near future.

Mr. Betts declared yesterday that last year several adults found their way to the parade, and he expressed the hope that more would parade this year. "The kids certainly enjoyed it last year, and there's no doubt about it, grown-ups add something to the show," he said.

Prizes will be on display at the store formerly occupied by Bob Hillier.

CHINA'S FLAG IS WELCOMED

One of the proudest marchers in the Victory Loan parade last Tuesday evening was John Kee Kow, proprietor of the Dominion Cafe, and a staunch supporter of Victory Loans. When James W. Baker, parade organizer, suggested that the small Chinese community in the town would be welcomed in the parade, John immediately took a bus to Toronto, where he secured a flag of the Chinese Republic. Several comments were heard on this manifestation of the United Nations spirit.

Sunday School Lesson

Steps Toward Solution Of Its Alcohol Solution

Taken from the following portions of Scripture: Ecclesiastes 10:17; Amos 5:21-24; Romans 15:19-21; 2 Cor. 6:17; 1 Peter 4:1-5.

GOLDEN TEXT

Let justice run down as waters, Amos 5:24.

An Introduction To The Lesson

While it is admittedly true that men and women cannot be made righteous, nor vicious appetites be controlled, by legislation, yet no one in his right mind would advocate the repeal of all laws prohibiting theft, murder, and other evils which are, in the word of God, linked with drunkenness and similar pernicious habits. By putting a legal ban on any course of action, the Government makes it incumbent upon all patriotic citizens to conform to that course of life which will not bring them in conflict with the criminal code of the commonwealth to which they belong.

A Lesson Outline The Temperate Life

Exemplary behaviour (Eccles 10:17); Consistent piety (Amos 5:24); Helping example (Romans 14:21); Refraining from all evil (2nd Cor. 6:17); Following Christ (1st Peter 4:1); Obeying the will of God (1st Peter 4:2); Rejection of old habits (verses 3, 4); Living in the fear of God (verse 5).

The Heart of the Lesson Christian obedience is not based

Wax To Save Elbow Grease

You'd be surprised until you try it, to find what a saving of time and work can be made by the use of wax. We never dreamed that it could be used on paper or parchment lamp shades when new. Either paste or liquid wax can be used to keep the shades looking new and clean. Polish gently, and all they need after that is dusting.

Try it on leather handbags and belts that have a glossy finish, and on sports and gardening shoes for sprucing up and partial waterproofing.

If you boast of leather bound books, liquid wax on the backs protects them against dampness and stickiness in summer and dryness in winter.

If you have a stone or brick fireplace, scrub it well, and give it a wax treatment. Liquid wax is the thing for this, working it into the pores with a stiff brush, polishing with a stiff brush and soft cloth.

You can save a lot of metal polishing if you go over every newly polished piece of brass, copper or pewter with paste or liquid wax. Put it on thinly and polish with a soft cloth. This protects the metal from air action and doubles the life of the gleam.

upon legality. It is not a question of what I have to do in order to get by without the Father's chastening and the disapproval of the Lord. It is rather a question of how far I can go in seeking to glorify God, and to edify and help my brethren and be a blessing, rather than an hindrance to those among whom I move day by day. Even "Christ pleased not himself" (Romans 15:3). A visit to the incurable wards of one of our large city hospitals would be a better commentary on the evil of indulging in spirituous liquors than the weightiest book on temperance ever written.

Hanuman, a town in Tennessee, U.S.A., has solved the liquor problem by inserting a clause in every deed of land forbidding the manufacture, sale, or storage of liquor on the property or the lot will revert to the company who founded the town. — from the Sunday School Times.

Benedick

A "Benedick" is a newly married man. The correct form is "Benedick," but "Benedict" is sometimes used.

The reference is to the character named Benedick in Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing." The form "Benedict" is derived from the Latin "Benedictus" (meaning blessed, or happy) and Shakespeare makes the name a joke or skit on the order of St. Benedict. The members of the order are famous for their ascetic habits, and are bound rigidly to celibacy, or bachelorhood.

Shakespeare is his himself of a joke in making Benedick, the young lord of Padua, rail against marriage, but afterwards marry Beatrice with whom he falls in love.

"In brief, since I do propose to marry, I will think nothing to any purpose that the world can say against it," says Benedick in the final scene of the play. — E. J. Sayings.

The kind of friend all of us want when the clouds hang dark and threatening, is not the cheerful, idiot who sings, "Oh, it ain't gonna rain no mo'" but the dour, thrifty trusting one who will lend us an umbrella.

IN WHICH THE WOMAN-NEXT-DOOR LOOKS AT US, AT OUR TOWN, AND OCCASIONALLY AT THE WORLD. . . .

Doing His Bit

The services of that unpleasant and unloved creature, the shark, have been enlisted to provide a substitute for Cod Liver Oil and Halibut Oil that is far superior to the original. Why didn't somebody think of this before?

When the Australian government found that because of the war their supplies of cod liver oil were being cut off, they immediately looked about them for a substitute, and found it close to their own shores.

One thing about shark liver oil is that it is almost minus the nasty taste of cod liver oil. That nasty taste the children screwed up their little mouths at is caused by a substance in the cod livers known to science as squalene.

Other native fish whose livers yield vitamins are the barracuda, the sea-mullet, and the native salmon, so Australia no longer needs to fear that she will be deprived of the valuable vitamins A and D, found in fish livers, with which to keep the health of her children above par.

Good News

We are reminded by an exchange that all the good news doesn't get into the papers. Especially in war time. Although the war seems to possess the world and to be bigger than it actually is, there is something happening which is bigger even than this war.

The big thing is all the good going on in spite of the war. News of it is crowded out of the headlines now, and only bits of it find their way into the items column. As a result many of us often forget that against what is wholly deplorable we ought to set all for which we may truly be thankful.

We are in danger also of forgetting that far more good deeds are being done than cruel ones, and that if all men of good will everywhere could be marshalled into battalions they would form armies greater than all that the enemy can muster.

All the dark deeds of the war, many though they are, are but a tithe of all the good deeds done by kindly folk. And no paper could ever record more than a tithe of the active peace which is for ever pulsating in the world of men.

The best and biggest news of all is the news which is not in the papers.

Come Let Us Sing

We have had a revival of Stephen Foster's sweet songs, which pleased everyone except the moe, hard-boiled, and was such a relief from the exaggerated strains of Tin-Pan-Alley. When we first heard Jeanie with the Light Brown Hair we said, "where have you been all my life?"

Now how about a revival of Irish Thomas Moore's melodies? Besides the already familiar Last Rose of Summer, Oft In the Stilly Night, and The Minstrel Boy, there are others less well-known but equally singable. A Canadian Boat Song was written on the St. Lawrence in 1806. For five days, while being rowed from Kingston to Montreal, Moore was exposed to the tuneful singing of the voyageurs, and though he found their French-Canadian patois impossible to translate, he fitted his own words to their tune, and was more than pleased with the result.

The Harp That Once Through Tara's Halls refers to the hill near Dublin which was famous in early history as a residence of Irish kings. Two love songs, Lesbia Hath a Beaming Eye, and The Young May Moon are well worth a place in the family evening sing-song. Farewell—But Whenever You Welcome the Hour is rather long but part can be sung one day and the rest the next; and there are lovely bits in Lalla Rookh.

It would pay to look into the possibilities of Thomas Moore for the long evenings when the family gather around the piano. It's a nice way to get acquainted,—with one another and with some good songs.

Boots And Saddle!

The younger and more venturesome among the business set in town are talking of taking up horseback riding as a means of locomotion if and when gasoline is rationed out of existence.

Both History and its ancestor Mythology and Fiction, the handmaid of both, are full of references to the steeds of notable personages, when the gentle art of riding was a part of everyday life.

Take, for instance, Babieca, the famed horse of the Old Campeador, greatest warrior produced out of the long struggle between Christian and Moslem in Spain some nine hundred years ago. Babieca outlived his master two years and a half, during which time no one was allowed to mount him, and when he died he was buried before the gate of the monastery at Valencia and two elms were planted to mark the site.

Then there was Agnes, the black palfrey of Mary Queen of Scots, who carried her royal mistress into and out of many of the misadventures that ended with the Queen's life in the courtyard of Fotheringhay Castle.

And we've all heard of Black Bess, the famous mare of the infamous Dick Turpin, who carried her master part way on that mad ride from London to York in his attempt to establish an alibi.

The Duke of Wellington and his charger Copenhagen rode together on many a battlefield, and Oliver Goldsmith bestrode an unfortunate pony which had somehow earned the name of Fiddleback.

Alexander the Great was carried on his triumphant round of conquests by the celebrated Bucephalus (meaning ox head). Alexander was the only person who could mount him, and he always knelt down to take up his master. He was thirty years old at death, and Alexander built a city for his mausoleum, while he called Bucephalus. A legend floats around in our mind that when Bucephalus died Alexander had the head mounted and carried before his armies as a mascot.

Dipping into fiction, there was Diomedes, the equine companion of young Guy Morville in The Heir of Redcliffe, and Mr. Fairfax's black horse Mesour, which slipped and fell on the ice in Hay Lane, you remember, and stepped up the evenness of Jane Eyre's too placid existence to one of feverish change. In Jack of Pook's Hill we read of Sir Richard Dalyngridge's huge warhorse, Swallow, and Sir Walter Scott perpetuates Lord Marmion's steed, Bevis, whose name means "swift."

From the dawn of history up to the present and buggy era all the best people either rode or sailed on their several occasions,—mode, by preference. Motoring and flying are mere modern conveniences.

Our Weekly Recipe

Let's try a cheese dish for supper so a night. Cheese is something there is plenty of right now, and there are no restrictions to its use. We haven't tried this one out yet, but sounds good enough to be true.

Rice Casserole.—Three cups cooked rice, 1 1/2 cups peas, canned or quick frozen, 1/2 pound Canadian cheddar cheese, grated, 1 egg, beaten. 2 1/2 cups well-seasoned thin white rice, 2 tablespoons butter.

Place rice, peas and cheese in alternating layers in greased casserole, ending with cheese. Combine egg and white sauce. Pour into casserole. Dot with butter. Bake moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.) 25 minutes. Approximate yield six portions.

This should make a good supper dish for the children to come home to when they've been out ghering hickory nuts after school.

Our Weekly Poem

WHEN THE WIND BLOWS

I love to hear the wind blow, on mornings in the spring;
I think it blows us grass and flowers and birds that like to sing.
I love to hear it blowing, in summer's days of ease;
It sets the ripe wheat curtsying and whispers in the trees,
And tips the tall white lilies that smell as sweet as musk.
But I love best the wind of fall that blows the leaves at dusk.
The brown leaves dance before it, and rustle as they go;
The red leaves on the maple trees come flying to the show.
I'm glad that winter's coming; I'm sure as I can be
The wind that blows the leaves at dusk blows happy days to me.
When the wind blows, when the wind goes, whirling down the street—
All day long it sings a song that's made for dancing feet.
I have a hundred wishes that no one ever knows,
But many or few, they all come true when the fall wind blows.
—St. Nicholas.

A Pi-ous Answer

We all know the man (and the woman) who would rather talk than work.

Luther Burbank, who has given us so many new plants and fruits, had a neighbour like that. When Burbank was working in his garden the neighbour would frequently stop and ask him questions about his experiments.

"What are you working on now?" the neighbour asked one morning.

"I am trying to cross an eggplant with a milk weed," was the reply.

The neighbour was amazed. "Really?" he said. "And what do you hope to get from that?"

"Custard pie," said Burbank.
—Exchange.

Faith forever triumphs over experience. No man ever got the kick out of playing Sta. Claus that he did in believing him.

Simple Flour Method

A simple way to flour fish or liver before cooking is to put the required amount of flour, pepper and salt in a paper bag, and add a few pieces at a time. In this way the food is floured evenly and quickly.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

Fall is the best of all seasons for color photography. Get a roll of color film, and start your fall snapshotting now.

WITH all the beauty and drama that can be packed into photography, it's still very difficult to find any black-and-white picture which measures up to a good natural-color snapshot. And without doubt that's one of the main reasons why color photography is becoming ever more popular these days.

Another reason, of course, is that it's just as easy to make fine color pictures as good black-and-white snapshots. So, now that fall is here, why don't you load your camera with color film and take full advantage of the brilliant seasonal coloring.

Technically speaking, you have just a few simple things to do. First you should read the instruction sheet that comes with your film. That's important, even if you've taken color pictures before because the two major types of color film have different reactions and characteristics—and color film differs radically from black-and-white.

Next, watch your exposures carefully. Correct exposure is absolutely vital to good color photography, so follow all exposure recommendations implicitly. With 35-mm. or sheet color film of the regular or outdoor type, the correct exposure for a crisp, clear, sunny day is 1/50 second at f/6.3, or 1/35 second at f/8. But, with roll type color film of the type that gives you a color negative, the basic exposure is 1/50 second at f/11.

Finally, watch the lighting. The best possible light for color photography is midmorning or midafternoon sunshine on a bright, clear day. Front or "flat" lighting when the sun is behind the camera, as in our illustration, will give you the best results.

Color photography is really fascinating. Try it once—I'm sure you'll be quickly convinced.

New Partner Joins Firm of Bench And Cavers As Latter Enters The Navy

Newest member of the Lincoln County Law Association is J. L. G. Keogh, prominent Toronto barrister for the past 15 years, who has come to this county as a member of the newly formed legal firm of Bench, Keogh and Cavers, of St. Catharines, which succeeds the firm of Bench and Cavers.

Mr. Keogh joins the new firm at a time when Harry P. Cavers, well known throughout the county, is awaiting posting to a Royal Canadian Naval station. He has been enlisted in the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve for the past several months.

The new barrister, who pronounces his name as if spelled "Keeo" was a member of the noted Canadian legal firm of Hughes, Agar and Thompson, of Toronto, since 1927 when he graduated with honors from Osgoode Hall. Forty-two years of age, Mr. Keogh is an able barrister and solicitor with wide experience in all branches of the practice of law.

He was born at Peterboro and received his early education at Ottawa before entering University of Toronto from where he graduated with the degree of Bachelor of Arts.

Mr. Keogh is married and has two sons.

"Rent That Extra Room" Is Slogan In Wartime Canada

"Rent That Extra Room" is an important slogan in this fourth year of the war.

Places where military camps or munitions works are situated are suffering from excess population and having to meet a serious housing problem. Extensive wartime building must be curtailed because of shortage in materials and labor, so householders are being asked to take fellow-Canadians into their homes.

Miss Byrne Sanders of the War-time Prices and Trade Board, Ottawa, whose Consumer Branch has been given the job of finding accommodation for these many thousands of workers and their families, is hopeful that if everyone with a spare room is prepared to rent it, the problem can be met voluntarily.

CRUSADE OF COMPASSION BY DEPUTY RELATIVES CHEERS UP WOUNDED CANADIAN FIGHTERS

By GARRY ALLIGHAN

London — This country is networked with a remarkable organization of "deputy relatives" visiting sick and wounded Canadian soldiers in 26 hospitals as proxies of their loved ones in Canada. Centrally directed from the Canadian Red Cross headquarters in London, these voluntary visitors are mostly Canadian women resident here, who go from bed to bed with comforts such as would be provided by nearest relatives when thousands of miles of land and water do not intervene. I have just spent a day in the company of Miss Rosemary Severs, Canadian Red Cross visitor at a famous Canadian military hospital "somewhere in south England."

Miss Severs is a member of a distinguished county family and who, prior to the war was known in England as a "gentlewoman of means," which meant in obsolete pre-war language — a lady who didn't have to do any work. When the war came, Miss Severs proved that even if wealth made work unnecessary, she wasn't going to be idle. The Canadian Red Cross provided her with an opportunity for the service she desired. At this one hospital she is in charge of a library of 3,000 books, and also distributes thousands of other items, including socks, candles and cigarettes, which the generous Canadian public enables the Red Cross to supply. In addition, Miss Severs acts as the men's "secretary," writing their letters home if they are incapable of writing, and acting as liaison between relatives and the men.

Men Grin Happily

It was good to see men grin happily as she entered the wards. Each ward has its own "Miss Severs day." There are 12 wards and she manages four wards a day, so each is visited twice weekly at least. The first bed we went to contained Pte. Peter Stark from Fairview, Alta., who was looking fine and dandy and had only one worry: "I finished the book last night and have been waiting for you to come with another." Miss Severs pushed forward the mobile library stack of books on a wheeled trolley and soon Peter was engrossed again.

We crossed the ward to where Rifleman G. N. White, from Winnipeg, was chatting with Gunner W. F. Smith from Listowel, Ont., and Pte. F. Lewis from Toronto, all in the interesting stage of convalescence and each with a sweet tooth aching for something. We left them noisily sucking maple sugar candy — a Canadian Red Cross delicacy which is too good to taste and good for health.

Gunner W. F. Davidson from Melford, Sask., was our next call. "Is there anything you want?" Miss Severs asked. "Nope, miss. All I want is something to read." He browsed over the trolley for five minutes and finally selected the wildest of wild west — much to the annoyance of Bombardier Harry Fraser from Matapédia, Que., who had strolled over to the library with the object of selecting exactly that book. We left him matching a coin to see who would read the first part and then we went into another ward where Miss Severs said: "I've got a special job for you." In a bed by the window lay K. F. Cassell from Toronto with his eyes bandaged. "He is getting on fine," Miss Severs whispered to me, "but he wants to write home and I've promised to do that for him today." There was no pathos, but something heroic in the scene as I watched the "gentlewoman of private means" taking dictation from a sick soldier and transmitting his thoughts home to loved ones across the intervening miles. Cassell had so much he wanted to say that shaping his thoughts took up the rest of the morning.

Gunner Wanted Socks

After lunch we resumed Canada's crusade of compassion and squatted alongside Gunner J. E. LaBarry from Rouen, Que., who had progressed well enough to be a sitting-up case. "What are you particularly wanting?" Miss Severs asked LaBarry, who looked a bit embarrassed. "Well, miss, to tell the truth, now that I can toddle around on my own pins, I could do with a nice pair of socks." Miss Severs proceeded to fit socks on his well-worn feet until a suitable pair were found.

Our next port of call was the bedside of Pte. Hodge from Toronto, who was mighty easy to satisfy — all he wanted were cigarettes. Nursing Sisters P. M. Moore from Montreal, and M. E. Brien from Kingston then whizzed us down the ward to where Pte. A. T. Hendry sat up in bed with the anxious look of a man who saw hope come in one door and feared it might walk out the other without passing by his bed. Henry was on the spot. He led up to it gently. First he asked for some cigarettes. Then a book, and just as we turned to go, he got to where he wanted to be — "And oh, miss, could you fix me up with a new tooth brush?" Miss Severs could, and did.

For the whole of that day, Miss Severs patrolled the wards — bringing that human touch from home that contributes to the recovery of health as much as medicine in some cases. This little-known ministry of mercy goes on every day in every ward in every hospital where Canadian service men are being nursed back to health. It is in my opinion one of the noblest deeds of kindness which the Canadian Red Cross is operating in the name of Canada.

Nov. 10 Deadline For Sending Of Overseas Parcels

Because of the greatly increased quantity of Christmas mail anticipated by postal authorities shipment overseas this year, the stress that greater care than ever is necessary on the part of mailers in order to avoid delay.

WHAT A VICTORY BOND IS

Look at a dollar bill. A dollar bill is like a bond. It's a promise to pay to the man who has it. You get bills when you sell things and pay them out when you buy things. A Victory Bond is "a bill" intended to be saved. When you keep a $100.00 Victory Bond for a year you receive an additional $3.00. (3% interest). Mr. Hepburn Steps Down

THE sudden resignation of Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn completes a cycle in one of the most amazing premierships of this province. Mr. Hepburn came into power in a vote that showed a sharp reaction to the moribund policies of the Conservative party, first under George Howard Ferguson and later under George S. Henry. Mr. Hepburn's victory at the polls was a wide swing in favour of the Liberal Party, and many hoped for better things.

Mr. Mitchell Hepburn's tenure in office began with the repudiation of the hydro contracts with power companies in Quebec during which Arthur Roebuck, his first attorney general, achieved prominence for his long and arduous debate on the matter. One of his speeches ran nine hours. The contracts were cancelled on the grounds that they supplied more power than was needed, and that the contracts were "improper". The latter charge stuck but for the past several years Ontario has been taking more power from Quebec than formerly, and is now faced with a power shortage that even new hydro developments will not completely satisfy.

Mr. Hepburn came into office on a wave of popular desire for a general housecleaning. His predecessor in office had to pay to the government the cost of having his private automobile serviced and maintained at the public expense. A huge cut in Ontario civil service was made. Before the war the number of men employed by the Ontario government and companies having contracts with the government rose higher than ever.

While professing savings for the Ontario taxpayer by substantial cuts in such direct taxes as automobile licenses, Mr. Hepburn, in his dual role of premier and provincial treasurer, called upon the Dominion Government for a greater war effort and at the same time increased the provincial debt to about forty-five million dollars.

Mr. Hepburn, in a motion brought in by himself, called upon the Dominion government to go to the country. When the vote was suddenly called a few weeks later, he expressed amazement and termed it a "waste of money." The voting returned the present government to power in a stronger position than before it went to the hustings. Mr. Hepburn, along with the Social Credit party of Alberta, stood against the implementation of new agreements between the Dominion and the provinces for a transference of taxing privileges to the Dominion and compensation for the provinces. The agreement with Ontario was finally ratified, but no clear reason for the delay and consequent confusion has been forthcoming.

Mr. Hepburn strongly opposed the C.I.O., branding labour organizers from the United States as "foreign agitators." Yet he found time to concern himself with the plight of members of the outlawed Communist party in Canada, obtaining the release of men who had urged Canadians to "demand that our country withdraw from the bloody, imperialist war," and to make a separate peace with the enemy. He supported the candidature of one of the strongest opponents of Communism in Canada, Arthur Meighen, and in doing so shared in his ignominious defeat. He has also strongly advocated the lifting of the ban on the party.

Demanding justice for the Communist party members, he has steadfastly refused to fill vacant seats in the Ontario house on the grounds that the province should not be put to the expense of by-elections, despite the fact that some of these seats have not been occupied for over two years, and that they represent some of the most heavily populated and industrially important sections of Ontario.

His government was responsible for the building of the Queen Elizabeth Way, the magnificent highway running from Niagara Falls to Toronto and connecting with another highway running to Montreal. This highway may or may not be used for military purposes, but the expensive light standards, and the large sums of money used to keep the lights burning for several months could not be termed military expedients. Nor could the expensive carved stone work at its bridges, or the extensive planting on its boulevards.

Less Of This, Please

ALL too often some mother is heard to say that she has "given" her son to the armed forces, or a father is heard saying that his son is in the army in a tone of voice which would lead many to believe that he is making a great sacrifice. Parents have that he is making a great sacrifice. Parents have every reason to take a pride in their sons and daughters who have entered the service of their country, but to bandy the fact about as if it were the party, nts who were making any sacrifice is an insult to those who are actually giving their lives or their health in the cause of freedom.

This fact was forcefully brought home last week by an exchange between two members of the Toronto city council. The debate, according to the press report, went like this:

Con. Hamilton: The vice-chairman continually brings in the matter of his serving in the last war. I give him credit for that, but what has he done in this one? I hear the army needs old officers for service now.

Con. Duncan: I resent the controller's remarks on behalf of the returned men of the last war and on behalf of those who are serving in this one. I should like to ask the controller his age.

Con. Hamilton: I am 48 years old.

Con. Duncan: And what are you doing to help win the war?

Con. Hamilton: I spend four hours on sports service work every day. We have supplied thousands of dollars' worth of sports equipment to the men in uniform. In addition to that, I am on the Victory Loan Publicity Committee. My boy is in the air force air crew. I don't know how old your boy is, but I believe he is of proper age for military service and is not serving.

Con. Duncan: I don't want to do this, Mr. Mayor, but I have to in view of the low conduct of the controller, and in justice to my son. My boy is 17. He worked ten hour a day in a war plant this summer. And this low-minded controller brings in the question of relations. I am not going to defend myself, but I will not let my son be traduced by a person with the traditions and background of this low-minded controller.

Nauseating as is this sort of debate in a public body, it is little worse than is being heard from many people in private. It would not be hard to imagine how some of the boys in uniform would react to this sort of thing could they but hear it and similar comments from the lips of their own relatives.

No Time To Slacken

THERE are several people who wondered just how the present Victory Loan would succeed in view of the great demands being made on Canadians in the form of taxes. They have been answered in a forceful manner by the results of the first three days of the local campaign, in which over twice the amount of money was invested as was the case with the first three days in the last loan. The figures show an increase of more than ten thousand dollars per day.

Encouraging as these figures are, they do not provide any person with an excuse for lying down on the job and thinking that the battle is over. At the present rate, the local objective will be reached in a substantial manner, but the impression that enough is being done, which might lead to a probable subscriber deciding not to do so, would prove disastrous. It would be far better to reach the objective than to fall short. It would be better still to push the final figure far over the objective.

Those who attend the Victory Loan rally held in the arena on Tuesday night need no the reminded of the part that their community is playing in furtherance of Canada's war program. It is by just such activities that were recounted by the county War Finance Committee chairman that Grimsby has always been able not only to deliver the goods when called upon to do so, but to take objectives set as mere minimums. A similar result in the Third Victory Loan is assured if citizens who have not as yet subscribed follow the example of those who have led the way during the first part of this week.

Calling All Cars

WESTBROOK PEGLER, the well known United States columnist, has come up with a suggestion that every motorist should turn in his automobile bumpers to the scrap steel collection. In making his suggestion, he took his own bumper off and turned in between ten and fifteen pounds of high quality steel.

Pegler points out that the only purpose served by automobile bumpers is to preserve the paint on the mudguards of the car to which they are attached. They do not prevent damage when a car travelling faster than about twenty miles an hour hits something, solid, like another car or a brick wall. Mr. Pegler claims they are useless, and that, as scrap bumpers offer more to offset the steel requirements of the day than such dead metal as chicken wire and oversized buttons.

What about it, Mr. Motorist. Are you willing to have your car look a bit denuded when you know that you have the very best type of steel you could offer your country travelling around with you and doing very little good where it is? Here is a project in which Grimsby might give the lead.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

After all the statements the Germans have given out regarding Stalingrad, the fact that it is "no longer a military problem" must come as good news to one side or the other.

The several rains of last week effectively washed out the midway attraction scheduled to be held in aid of the soldiers' cigarette fund of the Grimsby Chamber of Commerce. However, those behind the venture have been fortunate in being able to get the attractions for next week, and the show will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon. The affair should attract a lot of business, being the last show of its kind for the year. And the proceeds are going for a good cause.

RISEING POWERS

He who expects ease and comfort is asking for what he has no right to, and what I suspect he will not get. One way or another we must take it, and the question is whether within ourselves we are of such quality that the more trouble comes, the more our powers are called out; the more difficulty arises, the more dimensions we discover in our characters; the more life demands stamina, the more stamina rises to meet it.

Rev. Harry Emerson Fordick, in a recent sermon.

CONSERVE INCREASE

"That is the only way to do it," he said. "If you increase your man hours just to hurry things along you have lost the war. Conservation of man hours of work is the big problem of the country. It is the key to more production. We can constantly devise new means of producing with less work, so we can produce more. For example, right now we have a cement plant producing 5,000,000 barrels a year. We have every method and time saving device available and are constantly improving. Even if Japan furnished labor free for a competitive plant, we could still compete."

WINE FROM OTHER PRESSES

They Are Indispensable

The Montreal Star

IN this country, Canadian women have, so far, not been called on to play the complete role which their British sisters have, but every day, so it seems, they are widening their activities and taking up more and more of the load. They have not yet, thank God, been put to the stark test of the high explosive and the incendiary, but they are training hard against the time when these may come. What they are doing increasingly in the hard and responsible work of wartime factories we are only beginning to realize. In half a score of auxiliary organizations they are indispensable.

What Can You Lose?

The Buffalo Courier-Express

AMERICAN Legion leaders of Ashland, O., have come up with a wartime idea which we believe deserves a bit of commendation.

At the instigation of the Legionnaires the citizens of Ashland have pledged themselves to make every Thursday a "beefless day" — and we don't mean meatless. The Ashlanders have agreed that on Thursday they will not "beef" or complain about anything. The first "beefless day" was a great success, according to all reports. The people went around with big grins on their faces with a resultant lack of worry or tension and an even increased capacity and desire for work.

"Kinda nice," said the Legionnaires, "to have one day when you're putting your best foot forward and smiling as you do it." Wouldn't you like to go through a whole day without making or hearing a complaint or a gripe about anything?

Give the "beefless" idea a try. If it works one day a week it can work more days. If it works in wartime it can work in peacetime. It might even ward off those stomach ulcers and lengthen your life in addition to making it more agreeable.

So when you hear some one damning the government or somebody or something else it apparently is just music and not blasphemy. Personally we prefer music in a sweeter key.

When Is Profanity Music?

The Strathroy Age-Dispatch

"SWEARING" according to Dr. M. I. Ashley Montague of Philadelphia's Medical College and Hospital is "a natural reaction, almost as good as laughing and much better than crying." Profanity according to this doctor, is merely an emotional outlet which is rapidly reaching a high state of perfection.

According to Dr. Montague "swearing is not necessarily blasphemous" and a housewife who cries that "it is a dirty, lopsided, ignorant, impossible stew pan" gets the same release as a man who uses a special vocabulary. If the doctor is right we may expect in the future that the ladies instead of swooning or breaking into tears will break out in swearing and thus do something useful and helpful.

Should Use Small Plants

The Hesperian Herald

SCATTERED across Canada there are hundreds and perhaps thousands of small industrial plants whose facilities could be put to work in war production. Unfortunately, for both the plants themselves and the war effort, this has not as yet been properly organized and put into effect.

Isolated instances have been reported where small foundries and factories, and even automobile repair shops have sought and found sub-contracts for war material, but there are still many, many plants whose productive facilities are as yet untouched. Plants that have been classed as non-essential remain comparatively idle while essential industry is over-burdened. It would be no small task to make a comprehensive survey of the available facilities of these small plants and to allocate to them certain specific tasks of war production that they might accomplish, but it appears that the production of munitions and other supplies could be vastly increased if such a task were undertaken. If this country is to go all out into war production, let's use the facilities we have before we worry about constructing new plants.

From Our Files of Oct. 19, 1932

On Thursday evening Audrey Merritt entertained fifteen little girl friends at her home, Livingston Ave., to celebrate her tenth birthday.

Mrs. H. A. Yenny is a delegate this week at the semi-annual convention of the I.O.D.E., being held in Lindsay.

Grimsby High School is to play a game of Rugby with Lake Lodge on October 19th.

Grimsby High School is pretty well represented at Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. Among those attending are J. Jarvis, B. Bourne, C. Ashton, E. Tregunno, G. Globe, G. Hunter, W. Bromley, and L. Theal.

Rev. Harvey Merritt and Mr. W. L. Bengough are attending the Baptist Convention of Ontario and Quebec being held in Yorkminster Church, Toronto.

Sunday services which have been held all summer in the Boys' Tabernacle, Grimsby-Beach, will be continued during the winter months in Grimsby Beach School every Sunday morning. They will be in charge of Rev. E. Burgess.

At the banquet given by Meaford Board of Trade to amateur fishermen of the United States and Canada, Mr. A. W. Eickmeier, Grimsby Beach, was awarded second prize for his prowess in landing an 18 1/2 lb. fish this season. The prize was a piece of household furniture, manufactured at Meaford.

J. P. Bridgman, Winona, is on a combined business and pleasure trip to Nevada and Washington states, returning through Canada, via Vancouver.

There was 100% attendance at last meeting of Boy Scouts. By a vote of the boys, P. DeQuetteville was chosen as second of the Beaver Patrol. H. Hill, new troop bugler, is learning the calls very rapidly.

A Wolf Cub Six has been organized with the following members, C. Caverhill, J. Powell, T. McNinch, M. Thompson, B. Walker and D. Boyd. Colin Caverhill has been appointed "sixer," having had experience with cubbing in Windsor.

Major L. A. Bromley, M.M., and F. T. Shoebridge were presented with long service medals at the Annual Regimental Dinner and Dance of the Lincoln and Welland Regiment, held at the General Brock Hotel, Niagara Falls. These medals marked twenty years of service in His Majesty's Colonial Forces.

The business men of the town, stirred by the action of the town council in granting three meat poeblers' licenses, are taking steps to afford adequate protection to business firms located here.

Lincoln Junior Plow Team made a splendid showing at the plowing match held at Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa. The local boys placed eighth in keen competition among 17 teams, with a total of 51 among 17 teams, with a total of 51 competitors. The local team was composed of Donald Bush and Ross Young, of Calton, and Roy Lounsbury, Smithville, R. R. 1. Their standing was considered exceptionally good, in view of the fact that they were required to use pointer plows, a type very little used in this part of the county.

Winter Dress-up
Homes in town and country alike take on a new atmosphere of well-being in fall and winter months if window boxes are planted with branches of evergreens to resemble tiny shrubs, once flowering plants have frozen.

Suggestions On Saving Are Needed Says W. P. T. B.

Why not have a new kind of party? Card parties and sewing bees used to be popular, why not make it an "idea" bee this time?

This was the suggestion put forward by an official of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board at a meeting in Ottawa which was attended by members of the Board's Women's Regional Advisory Committee.

Ideas concerning economy measures — ways to save materials, money and labor for the war effort — are needed in Ottawa. Anyone with a suggestion to make is being asked to write it down and address his letter to "Suggestions", Industrial Division, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Birks Building, Ottawa.

Goods Conservation Releases Funds For Investments In Victory Bonds

Conservation of goods and materials now in use is becoming more and more an accepted policy in homes throughout Canada as a result of restrictions in production and growing shortages of non-essential supplies. Ottawa officials report. While playing an important part in Canada's war effort, this conservation also releases funds for investment in Victory Bonds, officials add, and thus performs a double national service.

During the past twelve months more and more Canadians have learned to do without things they do not urgently need and have learned to take better care of the possessions they already have, it is pointed out. As a result, they find that they are saving money and this money should be available for investment in Victory Bonds.

Before the war when an electric toaster or heater went out of order or when some other household equipment broke down many people simply went out and bought new equipment to replace the old. Today these same people are taking better care of their equipment and are substituting repairs for new purchases. Under the stress of wartime conditions they are living more economically and, if they invest these savings in Victory Bonds they will have cash available after the war to buy the new household articles they may then need.

In addition to reducing household budgets through conservation, householders may also save money by reducing power waste in their own homes. This saving may also be profitably invested in Victory Bonds, officials state.

Fires Can Be Avoided On Every Farm If Proper Prevention Methods Used

Fire takes a tremendous toll of property every year. This year, more than ever, farm production must not be impeded even by the smallest fire.

Every day hundreds of farm buildings in Canada and in the United States are destroyed by fire. In many instances these fires could be avoided. Common causes of fires and protective measures include the following, listed by Consumer Information Service.

Farmers should clean up all rubbish around the farm house and other buildings, especially inflammable material. Incidentally, this "junk" should be sorted over very carefully for anything of salvage value. This will serve the double purpose of fire prevention and salvage for victory.

Smoke pipes should be kept in good condition and not allowed to become too sooty. Make sure that the stove in the kitchen is on a good substantial base where there is little chance of fire.

Don't place hot ashes in cardboard boxes where they might start a fire. Place them in metal containers if possible.

All electric wiring should be properly installed. Bringing an electric cord through a door and winding it along the floor may seem like an easy way of making use of another outlet. Actually it is bad business, as a worn wire constitutes a very real fire hazard.

Lighting rods should be installed to guard against fires caused by lightning. All wire fences enclosing yards and pastures should be grounded to protect livestock from lightning.

In dealing with fires, speed is the essential thing. In order to save time, therefore, it is a good idea to keep water or sand pails, pump tanks, and chemical extinguishers handy. Check them from time to time to make certain that they are in good working order. It will pay in the long run.

Iron Often Culprit In Wasting Power

During these days of power conservation the electric iron often becomes a culprit in wasting electricity. The people living in Ontario and Quebec, where power is at a premium, should take particular care to see no power is wasted through improper use of irons.

Small, fine fabrics should be pressed while the electric iron is heating to the point required for regular ironing. Consumer Information Service advises. Do not keep the iron on for long periods of time and until it becomes excessively hot. Remember to turn it off before all the ironing is completed. Clothes needing only the dampness removed should be pressed using the stored heat left in the iron when the plug is taken out.

Since absorbency is one of the most important characteristics of bath towels and face cloths, they should never be ironed, because the flattened loops will not absorb water readily. Shake the towel before it is hung up to dry, and again when it is being folded. The same procedure can be followed with various other articles such as dish cloths, underwear, flannellette sheets and pajamas, and so on. This system will not only help conserve electricity but will save wear and tear on the electric iron which will have to last for the duration.

Bonds Bought Today Buy New Barns Tomorrow

Victory Bonds are not unlike an insurance endowment policy, except that in addition to paying interest and being returned in cash at the end of the war, they help win the war as well. As an investment they are as sound as Canada's credit and on a long-term basis they provide for tomorrow's wants through today's savings.

Farmers who buy Victory Bonds today will have funds available to build new barns or homes after the war. The use of pressure of war production, demands on building materials and labor now, all construction costing more than $500 is forbidden except under license. The farmer who needs a new barn must therefore wait until after the war before he can build it anyway. If he spends the money now, he may have to wait years longer before he can build. By saving money now, and investing it in Victory Bonds, he not only helps make sure his farm will still belong to him after the war, and not come to some Nazi overlord, but he also makes sure that he will have funds available to pay for its construction.

The person who brags about what he is going to do tomorrow, was probably doing the same thing yesterday.

To make a friend, let him think he is a little better in some way than you. To make an enemy, you have only to excel him.

The Little Towns Of Canada!

Oh, little towns of Canada!
Tree-shaded, cool and green
Whose friendly yards along the street
Have palings white and clean.
The little towns of Canada,
Whose people love the sun,
And children, chattering like birds
Along the sidewalks, run.
Where high-school lads, self-consciously,
With arms filled up with books
And eyes, that pick from out the gang,
The girl with prettiest looks.
Last year, Sam Jones and Willie Smith
Were with the laughing crowds.
But now they've gone to fight for us
The Battle of the Clouds

The little towns of Canada
Are tightening up their lips
Since youngsters, that we all have known
Are sailing fighting ships.
The little towns of Canada
Are stricken one by one,
As fiercely falls the shock of war
On some beloved son.
Some dear, familiar lad, who left
To join up with his kind,
To go with them and form a wall
To guard us left behind.

These little towns of Canada
Where hero-stuff is grown
Already have their Hero-dead
Where "Hurricanes" are flown.
And where the Libyan sands stretch out
With never a sheltering tree,
Or where our murdered ships go down,
Deep-buried in the sea.
Oh, little towns of Canada!
You pay the heavy price
That gives to us for all the year
The Crown of Sacrifice.

Grimsby Paper Tells Of Visit

(C. Chandler, Evening Telegram, Grimsby, England.)

A chance meeting in a railway train has led to a bond between Grimsby, England, and Grimsby, Canada.

In August last year, Mrs. F. Stone, of Weelsby Street, Grimsby, was returning from a holiday. At Sheffield station she got into a railway compartment in which was seated a nineteen year old Canadian gunner, M. S. Beaudette, of Grimsby, Ontario. He had been in this country about three weeks and asked fellow passengers if they were acquainted with Grimsby, Lincolnshire. Mrs. Stone has two sons in the R.A.F. who were due to come home on leave, so she invited Beaudette to go to her home. He accepted the invitation and had such a good time that, although he was stationed some 200 miles away, he has since spent several of his leaves with the Stone family.

At the end of 1941 Harry Stone volunteered for air training and was sent to Canada early this year. After several moves he at length reached London, Canada. Having had more than one invitation to visit the beaudettes, 200 miles away at Grimsby, he at length managed to get there.

Mr. and Mrs. Stone have just received letters from both their son and Mrs. Beaudette referring to the happy time they had spent together.

Mr. Bromley will be returning to his farm, which has been left without help since his son joined the Royal Canadian Air Force.

MILK SHORTAGE IS CAUSED BY INCREASED CONSUMPTION

Grimsby Dairies Have Faced Scarcity of Lactical Fluid For Past 10 Days — Hope For Larger Supply Soon.

Increased consumption coupled with adverse weather conditions is causing local milk dairies considerable worry at the present time.

While the consumer has not been aware of it, there has been a shortage of milk in Grimsby for some ten days and it is quite possible that the shortage may become more acute.

According to the dairy operators there is always a lower supply of milk from the farmers at this season of the year, owing to the fact, that the cows give less milk when the change over is made from pasture feeding to stall feeding and this is particularly noticeable if the cold, wet weather comes suddenly, such as the case this year.

Householders on the whole have been consuming greater quantities of milk ever since the rationing of tea and coffee came into effect, as adults are now drinking milk as well as the children.

The making of chocolate drinks was stopped some time ago in order to conserve supplies and on different occasions milk had to be secured from Hamilton to fill the local demand, but this now cannot be obtained as Hamilton dealers are also feeling the pinch.

Russell Terry of the Model Dairy does not anticipate that the shortage will become any worse unless something else arises to cause such a condition. In fact he has hopes that the supply will increase shortly.

On the other side of the picture, beef is plentiful. Local butchers report that they are able to secure a good supply of excellent quality, also a fair supply of lamb. Veal is scarce but fresh pork is practically unobtainable as are fresh pork products. Smoked meat products can be secured in medium quantities.

Rationing Board Will Be Set Up

Mayor Johnson Is Asked By Government to Head Body For This District — No Definite Arrangements Made Yet.

A representative of the government was in Grimsby last week discussing with Mayor Johnson the setting up of a local rationing board for the West Lincoln district with Grimsby as the centre.

Some 500 of these local boards are to be created across Canada and as no two districts will be the same in size or requirements, various plans will be discussed in each district and submitted to Ottawa for final decision.

Just what the duties of the board will be or how it will function is still an unknown quantity. Mayor Johnson has been asked to accept the chairmanship of the local district board, but what other men will be asked to sit on the board is not known. The services of the men who do act is to be entirely voluntary and it is requested that a secretary for the board be selected from one of the Grimsby municipal employees.

While nothing definite has been decided it is expected that the local district will be comprised of Grimsby, North Grimsby, Beamsville, Clinton, South Grimsby, Smithville, Caistor and Gainsboro.

Grand Display Of Service Pictures

Over 150 Photographs Of Grimsby And District Men In Armed Forces On View This Week.

One of the finest and most interesting window displays in connection with the present Victory Loan campaign, is that in the west window of Current and Betzner's store.

The display which is attracting wide spread attention is composed of over 150 photographs of Grimsby and district boys in the armed forces, and also the odd photograph of a young "lady soldier."

Also on display are a large number of mementoes and souvenirs sent home from England, Dunkirk, Dieppe and other fronts by men who took part in raids or on service at those points.

One most interesting curio is the illustrated propaganda leaflet that was dropped over England by the million, after the Dieppe raid, giving the Hun version of the affair.

A small piece of steel shell from a submarine torpedo taken from the hull of a torpedoed merchantman off the east coast is mute testimony as to just how close the Germans are to our shores.

The Witches Ride Tomorrow Night

Tomorrow night—Hallowe'en—is the one night in the year when the goons, the gnomes, the jeps and other mythical inhabitants of fairyland, celebrated as the old Witches riding their brooms cavort about and make trips to the moon.

It is the one night in the year when the kiddies and grown-ups of Grimsby all join in and have a real, harmless, hilarious time. It is the night of the big annual Hallowe'en Parade.

This year the parade sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce promises to be one of the biggest and best ever held and there will be fun and prizes for everyone. There are 22 excellent prizes being offered for a great variety of characters and costumes and there will be a grand sweepstake prize for the most outstanding entry in the parade.

The parade will form up at the Grimsby Garage, Main street east, at seven o'clock and proceed by way of Main street and Livingston avenue to the Arena where the judging and awarding of prizes will take place at 7.30. Be on hand and join in the fun.

Judges for the evening will be Mesdames Ruth Walker, Madeline Blanchard, Helen Kirk, Florence Laine, Mrs. Wray Moyer and Dr. J. L. Smith.

No Extra Gasoline For Deer Hunters

No extra gasoline will be provided to enable hunters to drive north for deer, has been announced.

At the meeting of the St. Catharines and Lincoln County Game and Fish Protective Association Monday night, the matter was discussed, and Secretary Henry Eller Tuesday morning telephoned D. J. Taylor, Deputy Minister in the Department of Game and Fish.

Mr. Taylor stated that the matter had been discussed with the oil controller's office and that no special concessions would be made. Deer hunters will have to make the best of their present ration.

At Monday night's meeting, conducted by Vice-Pres. S. T. Wilshier, moving pictures of the beauties of the Niagara district were shown by R. Barnum. Members discussed the pheasant season, and reported variable luck.

They also stated that red foxes are becoming numerous in the Power Glen-Fonthill district, and that some farmers are losing turkeys and chickens to the raiders.

Anderson's Store Closed To Public

Doors On One Of Fruit Belt's Finest Groceries Are Locked For Duration —Opened In 1923.

One of the finest grocery stores in the Fruit Belt was closed to the buying public on Saturday night, for the duration at least, when the Superior Store conducted by D. E. and Mrs. Anderson for many years ceased to be a going concern in Grimsby.

Andy and Lady Jane came to Grimsby in 1923 and opened Anderson's grocery which they conducted in a very high class manner until May of 1930 when they disposed of the business to a Mr. Magill of Toronto who in turn sold it to a Mr. Southgate, also of Toronto, from whom the Andersons repurchased it in October of 1931 and have conducted it ever since.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson have no immediate plans for the future except to take a short holiday but are not contemplating leaving Grimsby for the present.

This fine brick corner block was recently sold to James W. Baker, who will make alterations and renovations and expects to occupy the store with his stationery business about December 1st.

Christmas Trees May Be Lighted

Grimsby Hydro Electric officials have been advised by the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission that lighting of Christmas trees and decorating within the home will be permitted during the period December 24 and January 1, inclusive. Lighting of trees outside the home, and trees and decorations in stores or other places will be prohibited. The order permitting the Christmas lighting which has been authorized by the Dominion Power Controller definitely means "within the home" according to the advice received by the local Hydro office.

The Power Controller has also granted authority to theatres to use electric heaters for the heating of box offices where no other type of heating "is readily obtainable" but heaters must be kept to a minimum.

WANTED: BLOOD DONORS

Grimsby Chamber of Commerce are again sponsoring a Blood Donors Clinic at Milton and are issuing a call for more and more volunteers for this worthy cause.

There are at present 125 donors on the Grimsby list, or five per cent of our total population, which is an enviable record for any town and district to hold. These donors have contributed blood regularly during the past year.

Early in November the first clinic for Grimsby will be held and William Hewson, who is in charge of arrangements is anxious to not only have all the present list of donors still continue, but would like to secure as many new ones as possible. Further particulars regarding the clinic will be published next week. In the meantime contact Mr. Hewson for full details.

Gas Company To Protect Us

Local Utility Concern Drilled Four New Wells This Year—Five More To Be Sunk.

In an effort to be assured their consuming customers the coming winter will be supplied with an adequate supply of gas, Grimsby Natural Gas Company has been carrying on drilling operations for new wells in the south of Smithville.

To date three wells have been drilled, one of which was a one fair well and one a flowing well. Drilling is now in completion on a fourth well.

Supt. Rahn states that five wells will be drilled and in to have them completed before severe weather arrives the company contemplates either a 12 hour drilling shifts on the present drilling rig or else the installation of a second outfit and the outfits work a single shift.

Up until the war the local company had a working arrangement with the Dominion Gas Co. for purchase of a certain amount of gas each winter. When the shortage became acute in Hamilton and other industrial centres supplied by the Dominion this arrangement was cancelled and the company then had to drill wells of their own. This they did in 1940 and 1941, and while severe shortage has been experienced by local users heretofore, company are taking no chances hence the present drilling operations.

Recruiting Booth Here For C.W.A.

A recruiting office in the interests of the Canadian Women's Army Corps., which unit in Grimsby women are now serving with, was opened in Grimsby week.

Through the kindness of Mr. DeLaplante, local manager of Halliday Co., the office is located in the Halliday office, next door to the Grimsby National Gas Co.

2nd Lieut. M.C. Morris in charge and is assisted by a Grimsby girl, Pte. I. E. Smith. will be pleased to see all Grimsby and district women who are interested in the C. W. A. C. and them complete details and formation as to qualifications, of pay, positions to be filled, etc.

Service Changes Not Yet Known

No definite word has as yet received by C. D. Millyard, agent, for the Canada Coach Line and the Gray Coach Lines, as to what changes, if any, will be made on the two bus lines servicing the district, when the new order regarding bus travel, as announced by Ottawa last week, comes into effect.

It is hardly likely that change will be made in the Canada Coach Line service, but there is possibility that the 50 mile restriction on travel may have considerable bearing on the operation of the Gray Coach Lines Toronto-Buffalo service.

The new order of travel restrictions comes into effect November 15th.

Local Boy Loses Leg At Dieppe

Word was received last week from his mother, that Mr. John Campbell of North Grimsby township member of the Royal Canadian Light Infantry, which participated in the Dieppe raid, is now a prisoner in Germany.

The news was conveyed on a regular German army information card and explained that he had been wounded in the battle and as a result of those wounds had a leg. No other information as to his general health or his whereabouts was given.

The Christian View Of Marriage

Take from these passages of scripture—Genesis 1:27-28; Genesis 2:15-24; Jeremiah 29:4-6; Matthew 19:3-6; John 2:1-5.

GOLDEN TEXT

Marriage is honourable in all.—Hebrews 13:4.

A Introduction To The Lesson

The home is the foundation of society, therefore the importance of maintaining the sanctity of marriage. Looseness in this most ancient of all institutions shakes and destroys the framework of society. In both Testaments the home is viewed as a divinely ordered institution an marriage as an honourable and holy estate. The consistent Christian is never to violate the vows taken in marriage.

A Lesson Outline

Marriage according to the word of God.

Divinely ordained (Genesis 2:18).

A Hallowed Union (Genesis 2:24). The basis of the home (Genesis 1:28).

Honoured by God (Jeremiah 29:6). Recognized by Christ (John 2:2).

A lifelong relationship (Matthew 19:6).

The Heart of the Lesson

The passages used a basis for this lesson all stress the divine origin and the sacred character of marriage, and is not to be entered into by anyone, carelessly, thoughtlessly, or irreverently.

Adam And The Lover Creation

God brought all the beasts before Adam, who classified them and named them but among them all was no creature answering to the seed of his heart. This is the death blow to the infidel theory of evolution. Adam himself was no specialized brute just emerged from the status of an ape. He was a man of brilliant and discerning mind, who recognized his own superiority over all the other creatures God had made. It was in the plan of God that the man Adam should become the progenitor of a race like himself. In order that this might be so, He undertook to provide a companion, suitable to him, to be the mother of the race. To abuse marriage is to dishonor God.

Four half pint jars of preserves from nine quinces is something to mark up with red chalk on the fruit cellar door.

Coming home at noon recently and opening the kitchen door we were met by the "way back when" fragrance of Quince Preserves, our two year old tree having presented us with nine fine quinces.

It's quite a tricky procedure to turn out good Quince Preserves. Is this the way you do yours?

Peel, core and quarter the fruit. Weight, and allow an equal quantity of sugar. Put peelings and cores in a preserving kettle, cover with water, bring to a boil, and simmer for half an hour or until tender. Strain through a cotton jelly bag or fine strainer.

Put the juice back in the kettle and simmer the quinces in it a few at a time until they are tender. Lift out when they are done and put on a dish. If there is not enough juice, add water. When all are done, put in the sugar, and boil ten minutes. Put the fruit in the syrup and simmer for an hour. If you have any time after that, a slice or two of lemon may be placed in each jar.

Put on your reserve shelf for that special occasion.

Using Fireless Cooker Helps Conserve Fuel

The use of a fireless cooker will help conserve fuel and cut cooking costs, says Laura Pepper, Chief Consumer Section of the Department of Agriculture. Such a cooker can be made at home at little cost, and may be used successfully in the preparation of many dishes requiring long, slow cooking in the oven or on top of the stove. Stews, rice puddings, cereals, baked beans, pea or bean soup, scalloped potatoes, pot roasts, custards, dried fruits and certain flour mixtures such as gingerbread, Boston brown bread and sponge cake lend themselves to fireless cooking.

With the exception of flour mixtures, custards and dried fruits which need no pre-cooking, foods receive some preliminary cooking on the stove before being placed hot in the fireless cooker. Cereals are cooked 5 minutes, soups and stews brought to a boil, pot roasts seared, beans parboiled.

For successful operation of the fireless cooker there must be good insulation to prevent loss of heat, containers for food must be tightly covered and the fire bricks heat to a sufficiently high temperature before the food is put in.

IN WHICH THE WOMAN-NEXT-DOOR LOOKS AT US, AT OUR TOWN, AND OCCASIONALLY AT THE WORLD . . .

Saturday Afternoon

Saturday afternoon and a late October garden full of sunshine. Snapdragons and zinnias, marigolds and scarlet salvia putting forth great banks of bloom, and all they ask is a little grooming to keep them up to the mark for a few more weeks.

So, falling in with the mood, and supported by an armoured div vision of wheelbarrow, hamper and clippers, we fell upon the garden, trimming off gone-to-seed heads, pulling up plants that had seen better days, disentangling ambitious young morning glory vines that were strangling their betters, and generally putting things to rights, with the help of Perky the Persian.

In the woods at the back of the garden where squirrels were scampering back and forth between hickory and walnut trees, yellow leaves spiralled down from ash, elm and willow and, so still was the air, you heard the crash as they landed. Just on the rise of the hill a bed of gold-hearted maroon chrysanthemums sprawled over the ground.

The day deserved the highest praise in the power of a Canadian to bestow,—"too nice to stay indoors."

Five Things Parents Can Do

You can build your home life on love and make it God-centred. You can grow in fellowship with God, and share that fellowship with your children.

You can take your part in the worship and work of the church, and encourage your children to do the same.

You can answer truthfully and constructively your children's questions.

You can think and act courageously in all moral situations, and help your children to make habitual for themselves Christian ways of living.—From M.S.C.C. Bulletin.

Hallowe'en

The observance of Hallowe'en, meaning the eve of the Christian festival of Hallowmas or All Saints Day, has few shreds of Christianity clinging to it. To begin with, it had the wrong ancestry, dating back to the time of the Druids who, about the 1st of November, held their great autumn festival when fires were lighted in honour of the sun-god in thanksgiving for the harvest.

It was a Druidic belief, too, that on the eve of this harvest festival Saman, lord of death, called together the wicked souls that within the year had been condemned to inhabit the bodies of animals. In parts of Ireland, where old beliefs and customs die hard, the 31st of October is still known as the "Vigil of Saman."

In some strange way, to these old Druidic ceremonies were added observances pertaining to the Roman festival of Pomona, held about the 1st of November, in which nuts and apples, representing the winter store of fruits, held an important place. This is the origin of the roasted nuts and the "apple ducking" once the sport of the young folks of medieval England on October 31st, and even yet observed in the less sophisticated parts of the country.

Of these customs we in Canada are the direct heirs, some coming to us from the Old Land, and others by way of the New England States and the Mohawk Valley in the early days of our history. To them we added, in our brash youth, certain objectionable features of our own invention which, because in the main we are a people with a sense of decorum and of fair play, we have almost succeeded in discarding.

In Scotland and England the fireside revelries were mostly concerned in foretelling the future, and Robert Burns gives a lively description of them in his poem "Hallowe'en."

Rummage Sale Next Saturday

Now is the season of Rummage Sales. Already there have been three, with three more coming on successive Saturdays. It's an old saying, ungrammatical but true, that it's an ill wind blows nobody any good, and conveners are finding Bob Hillier's store an ideal spot to display their goods.

What marvellous things can be made of old felt hats! Handbags, knitting and shopping bags, babies' shoes, mats, good enough for anybody's floor, smart flowers for your coat, afghans, vests, chair seats, book covers—and new hats!

And as for old leather handbags, words fail to describe the metamorphosis of some of them! A little naphtha gas (to clean the lining), a small pair of pliers and a good stout pin (to mend a hinge), a bit of steel wool and a quantity of elbow grease to take the dingy remains of lacquer off the brass mounting, a stitch here and there, a bottle of black hat dye, a finishing touch of paste wax, rubbed in and lightly polished, and you've got something!

If you're anything of an antiquer, you'd thrill to the pair of lovely little oil paintings in deep gilt frames that appeared in the window on Saturday. Or the "still life" that once graced some patriarchal dining room, an exotic composition in rich dark tones of a basket of spilled fruit.

It might well have been a "companion" to the one that hung above Uncle Dan's head out at the farm. Thanksgiving dinner wouldn't have tasted the same without that picture, or the one on the opposite wall of the wealthy little girl with the supercilious pug stooping down to bestow a gracious pat on the shivering mongrel at her door. Thanksgiving grace, as pronounced by Uncle Dan, surrounded by his numerous family, was something that will live forever in the memory of every one who was fortunate enough to be a party to it. But let's get back to the rummage sale.

It's the dresses and coats that really make the sale a success. During the hard years of the depression, many women in our town clothed themselves and their children (or grandchildren) from the rummage sales; and if need be can do it again.

A 75 cent coat, carefully ripped apart, washed and pressed, and recut from a good pattern, made a proud new garment. It's more likely it was lined with what had once been a figured print at a modest cost of 35 cents or so. Unless the lucky owner spilled it, nobody would think it once hung on the clothes line at a rummage sale.

Our Weekly Recipe

We present for your approval a recipe that is in keeping with the season of Hallowe'en. Moreover, it is sugary.

GINGERBREAD—One-third cup butter, two-thirds cup boiling water, half cup molasses, half cup syrup, two eggs, two and a quarter cups flour, one teaspoon baking soda, half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking powder, one teaspoon ginger, one teaspoon cinnamon, half teaspoon cloves. Add the boiling water to the butter and let stand until melted. Add the syrup and molasses and let stand until cool. Beat the eggs and add to the syrup mixture. Sift all the dry ingredients and add. Beat vigorously. Pour into a greased and floured tin and bake forty minutes in a moderate oven. It may be served with a bowl of stewed prunes.

Try it out on the Hallowe'en crowd.

Our Weekly Poem

HALLOWE'EN

Oh, the hour is close to midnight
Hallowe'en!
And the moon's a Jack-o'-lantern
In the sky;
There's a rustle on the floor,
And a knock upon the door,
And a host of stealthy footsteps
Going by.

Oh, the hour is close to midnight
Hallowe'en!
Ancient witches sweep the cobwebs
From the sky,
And they're dusting off the stars,
And old tarnished lightning bars,
So the spirits will have light
To travel by!

—Marian Doyle.

VITAL PHOTOGRAPHIC ACCESSORIES

Well chosen accessories will aid you in getting the best snapshots such as this one.

NATURALLY, every experienced photographer has his ideas upon the subject, but I think everyone will agree that there are four basic photographic accessories which should be owned and used by every advanced amateur photographer. These are: an exposure guide, a filter, a lens hood, and a tripod.

Why so many? Well each has its use, and whether you own a fairly moderate outfit, or one of the latest and finest cameras, you'll find that making these help you to better picture taking. Take an exposure guide, for instance. It doesn't make any difference whether it's a photoelectric exposure meter or a ten-cent pocket guess out of experience. It will take the poorly exposed—blurred and prevent film thus wasted.

A filter recommendation. It has a pronounced effect because quality of your pictures on the plate think a medium. Some people think a medium. Some people think a medium. Some people think a medium.
